01] introduction 013
01. personal approach and methodology 024
02. some preliminary concepts: weak thought / performance art / historical context and its trace in the contemporary city 027

02] movement, walk and drift 041
01. dérive 046
02. the dérive as project 053
03. words and mapping to movement 056
04. structure to movement / disequilibrium 059
05. speed / time 064
06. route, movement and flow 065
07. notations 068

03] blurred boundaries and contours 071
01. the dilution of the limit in the city 075
02. the dilution of the limit in architecture 078
03. the bodies to the limits 081
04. in-between, affect and intimacy 085
05. boundaries as social constructs 090
06. openings / enclosures 092
07. the dilution of the context 095

04] fragility, desobjectalisation, and disappearance 101
01. art and architecture as a process 106
02. formal disappearance / tracelessness 110
03. the ephemeral value / event 115
04. the lack of commercial value and the impossibility of preservation 118
05. de-authorising 121
06. 'impresence' 125

05] unbalancing system, event and indeterminacy 129
01. architecture as the event / accident 133
02. unbalancing system 136
03. indeterminacy, chance or randomness 143
04. indeterminacy / complexity 147
05. indeterminacy as a project 153

06] non-plan, non-design, no-center, non-place, etc. 157
01. anarchitecture 161
02. anti-architecture / the un-house 168
03. non-plan 171
04. non-design 177
05. non-sites 180
06. no-center, anti-urbanism, anticity, non-place, etc. 183

07] conclusions 189
01. discontinuity 192
02. indeterminacy 193
03. entropy 194
04. future fields of research 196

08] bibliography 197

09] illustrations 213

10] index 225

annex 1] interview with Peter Cook 229

annex 2] mail art 235

annex 3] research through projects 243
